

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0067] Methods and devices for detecting nucleic acid and protein targets on hydrogel microarrays are disclosed. Fluorophores are incorporated into the targets and detected. A linear correlation between target concentration and signal amplitude is maintained through the elimination of active enzyme amplification.